Investment Review

This was a period of strong performance for the Trust. Technology stocks rose for most of the period although the market tone changed in late April, with many investors taking profits and reducing their holdings in the more volatile companies. At this time, we saw weakness in the internet and semiconductor stocks, and in our Chinese holdings. The latter were affected by announcements from the Chinese government that they were again raising reserve requirements, by governance issues associated with Yahoo's holding in Alibaba Group, and by the discovery of fraud at banking software vendor Longtop.

Trading in Longtop shares has been suspended and our holding has been written down from its cost of £2.1 million to a valuation of £0.2 million. The situation at Longtop is disappointing and has induced a note of caution with regard to our Chinese holdings. However, it is noted that gains on stocks such as GCL Poly, Baidu and Sina have more than offset losses at Longtop.

In the core technology sectors that comprise over 90% of our holdings, our stock picking was good, particularly in the communications and internet sectors. We continued to focus on themes such as the mobile internet, software as a service, and the new real time enterprise, which analyses internet and customer data quickly to make better and faster decisions. We were also helped by a large underweight position in Cisco Systems and we did not own RIMM, which was quite weak.

On the negative side, we saw pressure on large holdings such as Google, where investors were disappointed with the rapid growth in expenses at that company, and Cree, a LED lighting leader where pricing pressure led to disappointing results. We have sold the latter stock.

The net effect of these factors was a very satisfactory result for the period both in absolute terms and relative to our benchmark index.

Outlook

Markets remain volatile, with ongoing political and economic concerns over the Eurozone and the possibility that the US might slip back into recession in 2012. There is also some risk that China's measures to restrain the rise in its housing prices may be over-restrictive.

However, we believe that many of the companies in our portfolio are well positioned to respond to the challenges of the current environment, in many cases because they offer improvements in productivity and cost-effectiveness that will accelerate the adoption of their products and services.

We expect that the recent wave of server consolidation by large enterprises will peak over the next two years and that the associated growth in hardware and software sales experienced by some of the larger technology companies will subside. We have therefore increased our exposure to a number of mid-cap companies which we believe have strong secular growth prospects and are less dependent on rising with the tide of a general recovery. We expect merger and acquisition activity in the technology sector to increase, as the larger companies, many of which have high levels of cash, seek to increase their potential growth rates through acquisition.

Overall, whilst sensitive to valuation levels in some sectors, we believe that the broad 'themes' of our portfolio, backed by careful stock selection will provide good long term growth for our investors.

Material events and transactions

In the six month period to 31 May 2011 the following material events and transactions took place:

At the Annual General Meeting of the Company held on 6 April 2011 all resolutions put to shareholders were passed, including a vote that the Company shall continue as an investment trust for a further period of five years from that date.

On 13 April 2011, 129,872 Ordinary Shares were issued following the conversion of Subscription Shares.

During the period no Ordinary Shares were purchased either for cancellation or for holding in treasury, nor have any further Ordinary Shares been purchased since the period end.

There were no related party transactions in the period.

Discount Management Policy and Buy Back Authority

Pursuant to the proposals sanctioned by shareholders in December 2005, the Board has adopted a discount management policy under which the Company repurchases Ordinary shares for cancellation at prices representing a discount of not less than 7 per cent to NAV, where there is demand in the market for it to do so. Shareholders should note that the shares may from time to time trade at a discount of greater than 7 per cent, but that there may be no unmet demand from selling shareholders at this level. The making and timing of any share buy back is at the absolute discretion of the Board and there is no guarantee that buy backs will be made or that the policy will be successful in establishing and supporting an improved rating in the Company's shares. Under this discount management policy a total of 894,503 shares have been purchased and held in treasury since 1 December 2008 at a total cost of £1,907,575.

Derivatives Policy

Whilst positive about the medium and longer term, we felt some nervousness earlier in the year around the possibility of a significant market downturn. Consequently in May, we took out a degree of downside protection, through a put option based on the Powershares QQQ ETF.

To date, markets have in fact held up well and our level of confidence has generally grown during the period.

Principal risks and uncertainties for the next six months

The principal risks and uncertainties facing the Company over the next six months are broadly unchanged from those described in the Annual Financial Report for the year ended 30 November 2010. These are set out in the Business Review on page 14 of that Report, together with commentary on the Board's approach to mitigating the risks and uncertainties, under the following headings: Objective and Strategy; Level of Discount/Premium; Market Price Risk; Foreign Currency Risk; Interest Rate Risk; Liquidity Risk; Credit Risk; Portfolio Performance; and Operational and Regulatory Risk.

The world's financial system remains fragile and there is continuing uncertainty in markets. However, recent economic data has shown a degree of stabilisation in economic conditions. As noted above, the Company has a clear focus on sectors that have secular growth prospects and are less dependent on economic recovery.

Subscription Shares

Holders of the Subscription Shares issued by the Company in 2007 are reminded that they can subscribe for Ordinary Shares at a conversion price of 267p in the thirty days preceding the Annual General Meeting ("AGM") in 2012, after which date the right will expire. A notice will be posted to registered holders of the Subscription Shares, setting out how they may exercise their subscription rights, prior to the 2012 AGM, which is expected to be held in early April.
